

Summer-Long 'Used Art' Treasure Hunt

- No hunting for art...and ultimately no displaying art...without pre-registering. (Yes, you may drop out at the end of summer if you never find anything.) To register, email info@wooo.tv NOW. Space is limited, so register before you go hunting.
- Hunt for ART YOU REALLY LIKE! That's where the hunt comes in: Take your time, hit a lot of yard sales & the like, and be discerning & particular.
- Remember that you are hunting for the best art at the best price. While taste is subjective, and kitschy stuff is fine if it's what attracts you, the show as a gestalt is not meant to be all kitsch or a goof. Choose wisely: What doesn't sell, you're stuck with.
- Absolutely NO new art purchased retail! No commissioned pieces. No original art by you, your familymembers, friends, etc. That is not the purpose of this show.
- No art that's been hanging on your walls that you're tired of & now no longer want: This is NOT an art swap. (Nor should you submit art you got via an art swap.)
- Think FLAT art that hangs on a wall. No bulky 3D objects that are hard to display.
- No found 'art.' Please only hunt for actual art that was intended as art. (i.e., No crushed tin cans & discarded plastic bags that you simply find unintentionally 'artistic' or beautiful.) Think: paintings, drawings, pastels, watercolors, etchings, charcoals, photographs, pictures, portraits, lithographs, etc!
- Hunt as much as you like, but... For the exhibit: one piece of art per person. (Entries that comprise groupings of smaller works that go together are OK.)
- Technically, there's no size restriction, and large-format is OK. But please use your best judgment, considering safe & secure hanging and sharing wallspace.
- There is also no spending limit. HOWEVER, it is expected that the majority of the art in this show will be 'nickel & dime' pieces: that is, maybe, $5-$10 'used art' found at yard sales, etc. (READ: Shopping in antique stores = wrong idea.)
- Don't hunt purposely for offensive art. We reserve the right not to display.
- Prints (e.g., of famous works) are allowed, if that's what attracts you—it's subjective!
- Hunt for art anywhere! There's no 'local' restriction, so hit those yard sales anywhere you are. (You may hunt for art in junk stores & secondhand shops.)
- Modest cleaning-up of the art you buy is allowed. For the sake of presentation: Dusting, wiping down, knocking a frame back together, gluing matting back down, etc is fine. No retouching, altering, or adding/subtracting elements though.
- At the art opening, you are only compelled to display the single best work of art you found. You don't have to offer it for sale, but you may (on the terms of your choosing). If you love what you found, it's always yours to keep.
- Show us something that represents your aesthetic/taste that you stand behind proudly. Hunt for what YOU appreciate & would have in your own home.

Questions? Don't overthink it; we
